Pottery of the Native American Southwest
ARTS/ANTH 250 Class Exhibition

Catered Reception
Saturday, October 26, 2013, 3:00 to 4:30 p.m.
Alumni Hall 111

This is a Family Weekend event sponsored by the Native American Studies Program. Parents and families are invited to meet Native American Studies Faculty & Students.

Students in the course Native Art of North America have chosen Southwest pottery from the collections of the Longyear Museum of Anthropology. They have researched their selections and written illustrative labels. The pottery includes examples from many Pueblo cultures – including Hopi, Acoma, Zia, Jemez, and Laguna – as well as Apache and Navajo vessels. They date from prehistoric times to the present. Students will give brief presentations about their research at the reception.

Colgate University, Hamilton, NY 13346. Info: 228-7184 or clorenz@colgate.edu