Scatter Their Own:
Oppression and the Struggle for Identity

ALANA Lounge
Thursday, February 20th
3pm

Scotti Clifford and Juliana Brown Eyes–Clifford make up Scatter Their Own, an Alter–Native Oglala Lakota band from Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota.

They share their perspectives of identity oppression and the challenges they face as professional artists in the midwest, while trying to hanging on to their Cultural Traditions.

Food will be provided!

Visit their page @ www.scattertheirown.com
Follow them on Twitter and Facebook!

This event was made possible by Native American Student Association, Project Peace ALANA Cultural Center, and Native American Studies Department! Special Thanks to the Black Student–Union