Center for International Programs
Leading the Nation in Study Abroad

In August 2015, Colgate opened the Center for International Programs (CIP). The center is on the first floor of McGregory Hall, and houses the Office of Off-Campus Study, the Lampert Institute for Civic and Global Affairs, and the New York Six Consortium. It is also considered a home base for international students studying on the hill as we partner with the Office for International Services on a variety of programming. The space features a wired conference room suitable for international video conferencing, a lounge and kitchen facilities that are open to students, faculty and staff.

The Center for International Programs helps to centralize our internationalization efforts at Colgate. We are a national leader in study abroad, with two-thirds of our students studying abroad on a semester-long program each year. Another 100 or more students participate in our short-term extended study programs. The staff in the Center is ready to help guide students in the process of choosing the right program for them, whether it’s one of our 20 study groups directed by Colgate faculty or an approved program offered by a partner institution. Each study abroad program is unique in terms of academic focus and structure, and allows students the opportunity to earn Colgate credit for their coursework. Colgate students on financial aid are able to apply their financial aid toward their study abroad program, making study abroad accessible to all of our students.

The Center also provides a physical home for the Lampert Institute, which funds student and faculty research at home and abroad, along with a rich set of programs on campus that are focused on issues of global relevance. The generous support of the Lampert Institute has allowed the university to enhance its global presence by building strategic partnerships around the world. The partnerships are multi-faceted and involve student and faculty exchange, as well as collaboration in teaching and research with leading scholars around the world.

We have many new staff in the Center, and we welcome the Colgate community to stop in and say hello, or join us on Friday mornings when we make pancakes in the Center. The Center is a vibrant space and we are open to partnering with other offices around campus. Faculty, staff and students should remember to register their Colgate-sponsored international travel and sign up for international health insurance on the CIP website.

Colgate Team Takes 2nd Place in Boilermaker 15K Corporate Cup

With near-perfect running conditions, members of the Colgate Boilermaker Corporate Cup team joined over 11,000 runners who ran the Boilermaker 15K road race in Utica on July 10. The team, in just its second year of existence, saw a jump in participation with 18 faculty and staff from across the institution completing the 9.3 mile course.

The Boilermaker Corporate Cup is a race within the race, pitting employees of various organizations in Central New York against each other in a friendly competition. The two fastest men’s times are combined with the two fastest women’s times plus the next fastest time to provide an average team time. But the emphasis for the Colgate team is on camaraderie, fun, and representing Colgate University in a high profile local event.

The team jumped four spots this year in the Corporate Cup to finish second in their division (co-ed, under 1000 employees) with an average time just under one hour, fifteen minutes, knocking more than 3 minutes off of last year’s time. Leading the way for the Colgate team were Christina Turner, James Reed, Vijay Ramachandran, Bruce Hansen, and Kat Kolozsvary. In addition to the top five runners, 2016 Colgate Corporate team included Chris Henke, Crystal Jadwick, Dave Herringshaw, Dawn LaFrance, Drew Porter, Jessica Hootz, John Collins, John Gatusso, Kristi Mangine, Mark Stern, Rebecca Metzler, Robert Nemes, Sarah Hughes, and Tracy Kelly.

Registration for the 2017 Boilermaker begins in March and the Colgate team is open to any Colgate employee or retiree who registers for the 15K run. All Colgate runners, regardless of experience or ability, are encouraged to join the team next year. We hope to see you then!
Did you know that food travels an average of 1,500 miles before it is eaten? During its travel to a supermarket food loses much of its flavor, freshness, and nutrients while requiring lots of fuel to reach its destination. While eating local in all seasons is a good idea, summer’s bounty makes it much easier.

There are many advantages to eating local:

- Food grown locally tastes better. Food that is only traveling a few miles is sold at its peak of ripeness. You can often buy local food within 24 hours of being picked.
- Local food is more nutritious. Because the time from farm to fork is much shorter, local food maintains most of its nutrients.
- Eating local generally means being in touch with the seasons. Strawberries taste much better when they are in season. And nothing is better than a peach in summer.
- Buying local food helps keep local farmers in business and also boosts the economy by keeping both jobs and money in our community.
- Since local food doesn’t travel very far, it requires less fuel to get to you.
- And lastly, if you buy directly from the farmer, you can see how your food is raised.

There are lots of ways to buy fresh and local:

- Farmers’ markets are a great way to buy fresh produce. The Saturday morning farmers’ market in Hamilton is wonderful, and there are many other markets near by including Cazenovia and Clinton.
- Farm stands are also a good way to obtain fresh food, and these pop up everywhere over the summer. One great local example is Mosher’s.
- At U-pick farms you pick the produce — usually fruit — and you pay for how much you pick. U-Pick Farms are great fun with kids — they usually love picking (and tasting) fresh fruit. A good list of farms in CNY and Madison County can be found [here].
- Finally, community supported agriculture (CSA) is a farming co-op, where you pay a fixed amount each season. The advantage of a CSA to the farmer is they have a fixed source of income. The advantage for you is receiving a variety of fresh, usually organic, in-season produce. A listing of CSAs in Madison County can be found [here].

Whatever choice you make, get outside with the remaining summer days, and find food—healthy, fresh and local—close to home.
Colgate Hot Jobs: Spread the Word
