

Competitive Financial Aid

Insights and Resources

COLGATE
UNIVERSITY

Colgate University is committed to making your education affordable.

As Colgate enters an ambitious third century, the competitive financial support available to families continues to expand alongside the University's commitment to educate the best and brightest students from all economic backgrounds.

No-Loan Initiative

Starting in the fall of 2020, Colgate will eliminate loans from financial aid offers for all current and incoming students with a total family income of up to $125,000 with household assets typical of this income range. Replacing loans with grants will help lessen the burden of student debt after college. colgate.edu/noloan

Meeting 100% of demonstrated need

Colgate uses a standard formula known as Institutional Methodology to assess need. Family income, basic living expenses, educational expenses for other children enrolled in undergraduate study, savings, and assets including home and real estate value are used to determine how much a family can reasonably afford to contribute. That figure is subtracted from the total cost of attendance and the result is your demonstrated need.

“ Financial aid has been crucial in my ability to attend Colgate University. I have been able to attend college without taking out student loans and will graduate with no debt. I would not be at Colgate University without the support of the financial aid office.”

-Noah Bernstein '20

“ The financial aid package that I received from Colgate was a major contributor to my decision to attend the University. Colgate made attending a prestigious university very affordable, and afforded me the opportunity to travel abroad without feeling trapped by financial burdens.”
